Die Hochland Imker

Pfarrkirchen, Austria

Brewery Description:

The company "Highland Beekeepers Fruehwirth KG" was founded in May 2004 and entered into the company register at the Commercial Court in Linz, Austria. The Fruehwirth family, Doris and Peter and their son Valentin, strives to offer outstanding products by adhering to organic principles in the care of their bees. The Muehlviertel's strength lies in its soil. These uplands have never been suitable for intensive agriculture, and this ancient landscape has only ever shared its fruits with those who have shaped it by the toil of their hands. The reward of these labours is a rich and diverse cultural countryside. Their bees also benefit from all this vitality. Their nectar and honey dew, pollen and propolis are rich, nourishing, aromatic and delicious. The Hochland Beekeepers are committed to preserving the character of this unique central European agricultural region. Simplicity and honesty are the very essences of these granite uplands, and the Hochland Beekeepers are dedicated to making it possible for our customers to enjoy these qualities in both our traditional and in our more innovative products.

Malzkoenig Honey malt vinegar

■ Mead Collection

Pure fermented vinegar

Organic honey and organic honey beer wort sourced from the Hofstetten brewery are used in the natural fermentation process, and produce a spicy vinegar variety. The malt content in the wort imbues our Malzkoenig with lots of body.

Malzkoenig is especially suited as a condiment for red leaf salads and for enhancing sauces for game and beef. This vinegar is also an ideal partner for intensely flavoured oils, for instance pumpkin seed oil.

mer blossom honey. The combination of the mild sweetness of the summer blossom and the subtle acidity of the vinegar produces a unique harmony. Goldmarie is pale yellow and has the most delicately structured acidity of all of our vinegars.

The old German fairytale of Mother Hulda by the Brothers Grimm gave us the inspiration for its name. The tale tells of the industrious girl with the straw-blond hair who was draped in gold as a reward for her hard work by Mother Hulda. When she turned up at home again she was greeted by the rooster with:

*Our golden maiden's back.
Cock-a-doodle-doo!
What's new with you?*

Morrhexe Honey Blueberry Vinegar

■ Mead Collection

Pure fermented vinegar

Marshland honey and wild blueberries are fermented into a fragrant, rosé vinegar variety. The Marshland honey and blueberries originate from the 'Bavarian Marshland', a large wetland area in the Austrian region of the Bohemian Forest. During the cool summers, our bees collect nectar there from cranberries, bog bilberries, blueberries, wild rosemary, common heather and glossy buckthorn as well as honeydew from bog spruces and mountain pines.

An old Austrian legend tells us that the dead haunt these marshlands at night during thunderstorms. Witches, long ago thrown into the bogs to drown, rise up to strike terror into people's hearts. Then ghost-lights flicker and dance over the marches, leading unwary travellers astray.
